

July LPS Educational Program
July 18, 2009 starting at 9:30 AM
Jones Creek Library

Our July Program will highlight how the layers tool can assist in processing our digital images. This is the most commonly used tool that offers many creative options to enhance our images. Our morning program from 9:30 AM to 11:30 AM will feature presentations by Gene Bachman and Cathy Reeves. The afternoon program is open and other LPS members may present their talent and expertise on how they use layers in their digital photography.

Please bring your laptop so you can follow along with the presenters. Their images will be available for download in your computer before the program starts. You may also download a free trial copy of the Photoshop Element or Photoshop CS versions from the Adobe website <http://www.adobe.com/downloads/> if you wish to try it out. There will be a few members floating around to assist if you need any help. It is not necessary to have a laptop computer since we will also have the projection system we use during our meetings set up for every one to follow the presentations.

There will also be a few members available for one-on-one educational either during the lunch or after the lunch. If you have any specific questions or need help in understanding your new camera, software or similar assistance please feel free to bring them up for guidance.

Please feel free to invite your friends who may be interested in our educational program.

Our September 26th educational will feature Photoshop Element covering the basic processing of digital images.

Jay Patel
LPS Educational Coordinator